Short-term activities

Background

- In alignment with SIREUS second goal, the Swedish university members were asked to map short-term activities.

Key takeaways

- Summer school is the most common short-term activity
- The mapping lack data from five universities. For more specific details, see the Excel sheet
 - Two universities have reported zero short-term activities
 - Three universities have not filled in their data
- All universities except one have more than three types of different short-term activities
- A majority of short-term activities are in collaboration with an American partner university
